

Discussion Questions on “Gandhi’s Followers Protest the Salt Tax,” “I Will Bear Witness,” and “Harlem [2]”

1. Why do you think that Gandhi’s followers were willing to suffer at the hands of the English without fighting back or offering resistance?
2. Do you believe that the practice of non-violence achieved its ends? Why or why not?
3. In “I Will Bear Witness,” Victor Klemperer recalls the systematic break-down of society. Why do you think the German people, who midway through the war were dissatisfied with Nazi tyranny, allowed their government to take away so many of their rights?
4. Could the German people effectively combat the spread of Nazism and the break-down of society? Why or why not?
5. Why does Langston Hughes talk about a dream deferred? What does he mean by this?
6. What do you think happens to a dream deferred?
